

Valley Roasting Ears Appear Here

Cantaloupes From Valley Farms Are Expected Soon; Grape Fruit Drops in Price.

THE advent of green valley roasting ears, the departure of apricots and peaches, together with the reduction in the price of watermelons per pound, were features of the market during the past week. Valley cantaloupes will soon begin to appear. Also much to the delight of the El Pasoans, the cantaloupes are of the large melon variety and will be the ideal valley product on the market this season.

Florida grape fruit dropped to hardly a third of its former price during the week. The present price being four for 25 cents. California fresh cherries have completely disappeared, while fresh string beans, one of the most popular summer vegetables, are now three pounds for a quarter. The price of artichokes adheres to the original standard of 15 cents, while fresh asparagus has disappeared. Fresh whole pineapples have also been scratched off the list of imported fruits.
